

Kasih Food Production Company Launches Training Partnership with Jordanian Engineers Association to Empower Future Engineers

Kasih food production company signed a cooperation agreement with the Jordanian engineers association to train top-performing recent engineering graduates. This agreement aligns with the company's vision to enhance its contribution to the local community by investing in the new generation of engineers and providing a professional training environment that enables them to acquire essential skills for tackling the challenges of the job market.

The agreement aims to offer practical and operational training opportunities for new engineers, helping to develop their professional skills and gain practical experience in a modern, advanced industrial environment. Through this agreement, kasih will be able to attract young talent and guide them along a career path that aligns with industry needs, fostering innovation and productivity.

This initiative is part of kasih's strategy to invest in national talent and support Jordanian youth, as the company continually strives to enhance technical and professional expertise within its production processes. Kasih proudly supports this cooperation, which contributes to strengthening the industrial sector by providing qualified and creative engineers, thereby improving the quality of products and services delivered to customers.

Additionally, this agreement reflects kasih's commitment to strengthening public-private partnerships, enabling knowledge exchange and promoting the development of the food industry in Jordan. The company hopes this initiative will contribute to driving economic development and creating new job opportunities for young people, supporting a national vision for a brighter future.
