Kasih Food Production Co. is pleased to announce its partnership with the German Jordanian University (GJU) as part of the Dual Studies Program, which aims to integrate academic education with practical experience in a real work environment.

Through this pioneering initiative, we work to strengthen the connection between universities and the business sector by providing students the opportunity to combine academic studies with hands-on training. This enables them to acquire the practical skills demanded by today's labor market and helps ensure a smooth transition from education to employment.

Our commitment to empowering university students stems from our belief that the future of success begins with applied education, collaboration, and continuous growth. It also reflects our social responsibility to support and develop national talents who contribute to the advancement of the local economy.

We warmly welcome the GJU students to the Kasih family and look forward to building a bright future together by providing a stimulating work environment where they can learn, grow, and gain the experience needed to meet the challenges of the labor market.
